In the Spotlight is a new feature we are adding to our newsletters to highlight those who make difference. This in the Spotlight this newsletter is Dr Matthew Kilgo.

Dr Kilgo is a Board-Certified Plastic Surgeon. He’s a part of Long Island Plastic Surgical Group. I first met Dr Kilgo in June of 2008. He came highly recommend to me by my breast surgeon, Dr Roza Zaidi.

Upon being diagnosed a very wise and informative nurse had given me this advice: She said, “When choosing a plastic surgeon make sure you really like him/her, because it is going to be a lifelong relationship.”

When I first met Dr. Kilgo he was very young and knowledgeable. He was patient and caring in explaining all my options. I knew I had found the right plastic for me. After the last 11 years and several surgeries I am still so pleased with my results. Dr. Kilgo truly takes pride in his work and treats every patient like they are his masterpiece.

Over the years I’ve seen him grow from being single to getting engaged, married and having each of his two children. It’s true, it is a lifelong relationship that we build with our doctors. I thank Dr Matthew Kilgo for being such a positive piece of my journey.
